Reforming the United Nations: state of play, ways forward 7 UN secretaries-general have pushed to reform peace support operations and structures. Boutros Boutros-Ghali's 1992 "Agenda for Peace" provided a blueprint for providing peace support during the peak of international interventions in the 1990s. The 2000 "Brahimi Report" Commissioned by Kofi

Reforming the United Nations: Lessons from a History in

Since the late 1990s there have been many calls for reform of the United Nations. However, there is little clarity or consensus about what reform might mean in practice. Both those who want the UN to play a greater role in world affairs and those who want its role confined to humanitarian work or otherwise reduced use the term "UN reform" to refer to their ideas. The range of opinion extends from those who want to eliminate the UN entirely, to those who want to make it into a full-fledged world
