acid-base metabolism is that the bicarbonate concentration, representing the base component of the principal physiological buffer system, is greatly reduced below the normal range. This is consistent with acid accumulation in the ECF, for which we must explore both the cause and the consequences. The key parameter involved in acid-base regulation

Respiratory Regulation of Acid-Base Balance. The respiratory system contributes to the balance of acids and bases in the body by regulating the blood levels of carbonic acid. CO<sub>2</sub> in the blood readily reacts with water to form carbonic acid, and the levels of CO<sub>2</sub> and carbonic acid in the blood are in equilibrium.
